

Content Marketing and Content Distribution: Current State and New Perspectives

Pan-European ICMF Barometer 2019

The ICMF Barometer surveyed nearly 500 communication executives (n = 487) in eight countries to explore the state of content marketing and its future at international level.

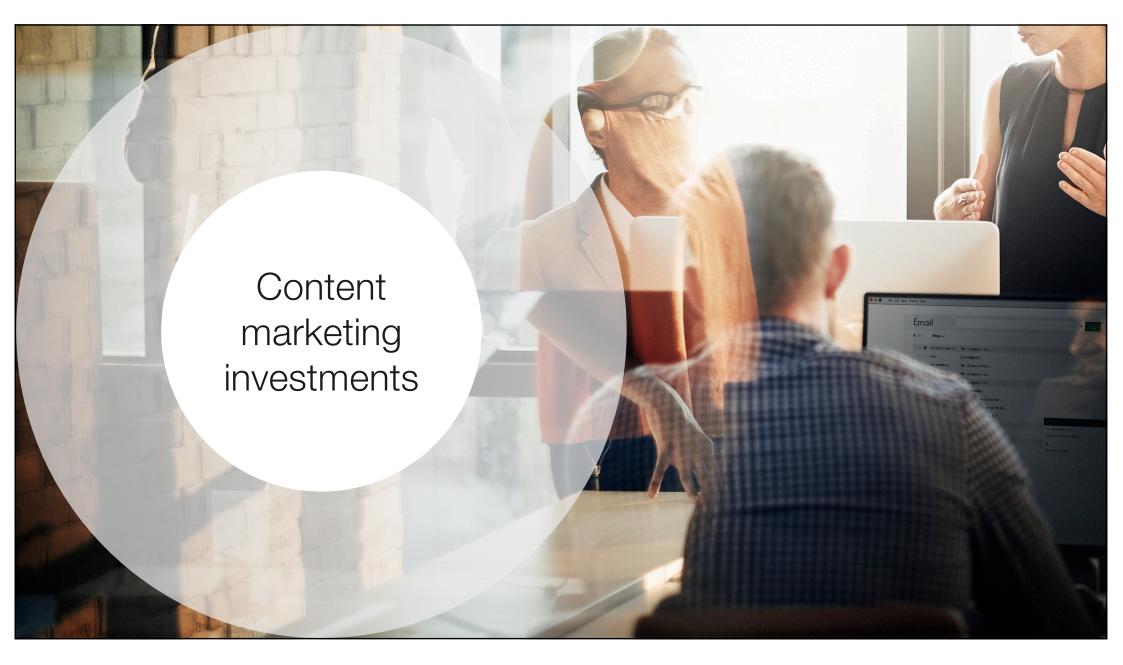

The study is based on a common definition of content marketing.

Content marketing is defined as a marketing approach that is focused on creating and distributing valuable and relevant editorial content to drive strategic business objectives.

Content Marketing ...

- includes corporate, brand, product and employee communications
- strives for significant measurable impact
- includes continuous and temporary communications initiatives.

Total content marketing investments (EUR million)

In the countries investigated in this study, companies invest EUR 9.4 billion per annum in content marketing.

ICMF | Scion (2018)

Total content marketing investments (EUR million)

With regard to total content marketing investments, Germany, Switzerland and Austria are the largest markets.

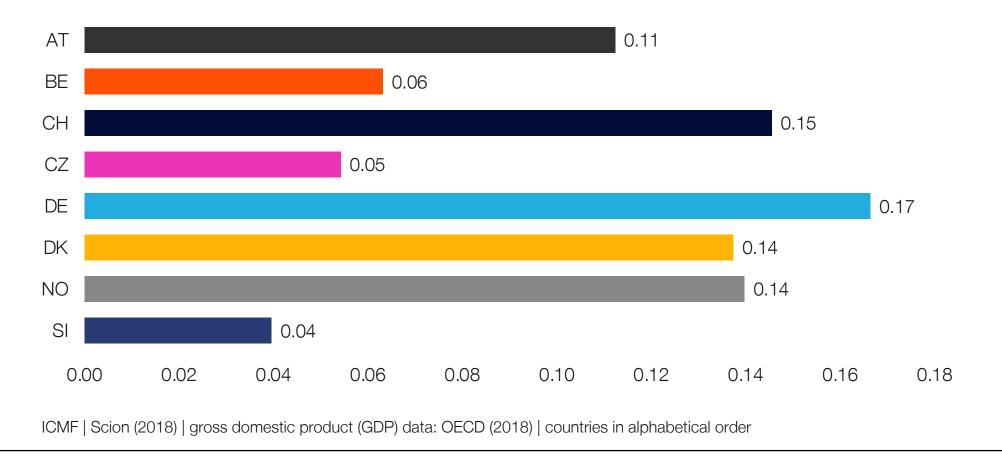

ICMF | Scion (2018) | areas of the treemap rectangles are proportional to the countries' content marketing investments

CM intensity: content marketing investments as % of GDP

In terms of content marketing intensity, Germany, Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries lead the pack.

7

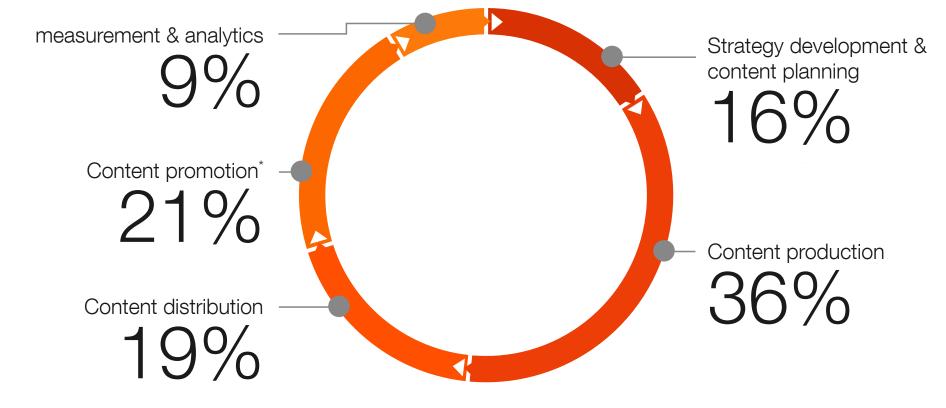

Average content marketing budgets (EUR)

The mean annual content marketing budgets are highest in the German-speaking area and Norway, followed by Belgium and Denmark.

Content marketing investments: activities in the content marketing cycle

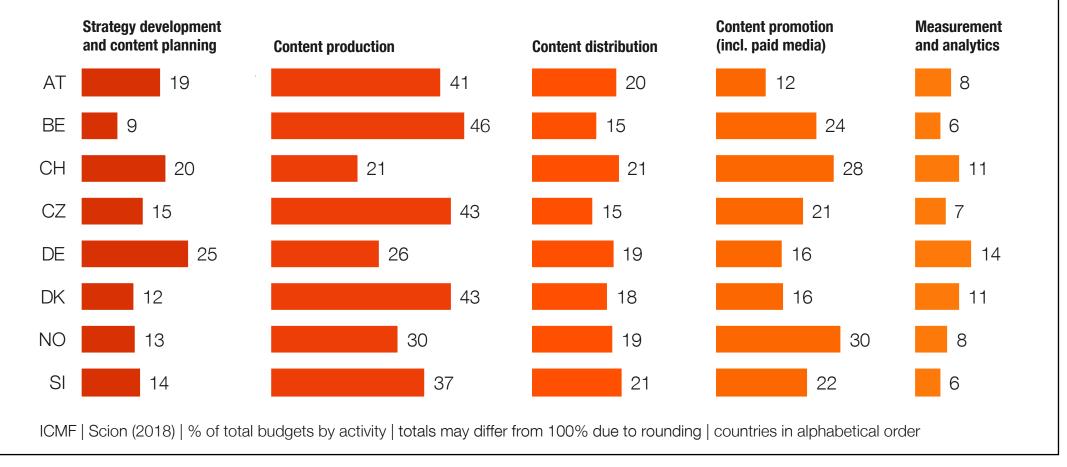

On a Pan-European level, on average slightly more than half of the investments are accounted for by strategy development, content planning and content production.

ICMF | Scion (2018) | total may differ from 100% due to rounding | * incl. investments in paid media

Content marketing investments: activities in the content marketing cycle

Strategizing and planning is most pronounced in DE, content production accounts for large budget shares in BE, CZ and DK. Promotion attains large proportions in NO and CH.

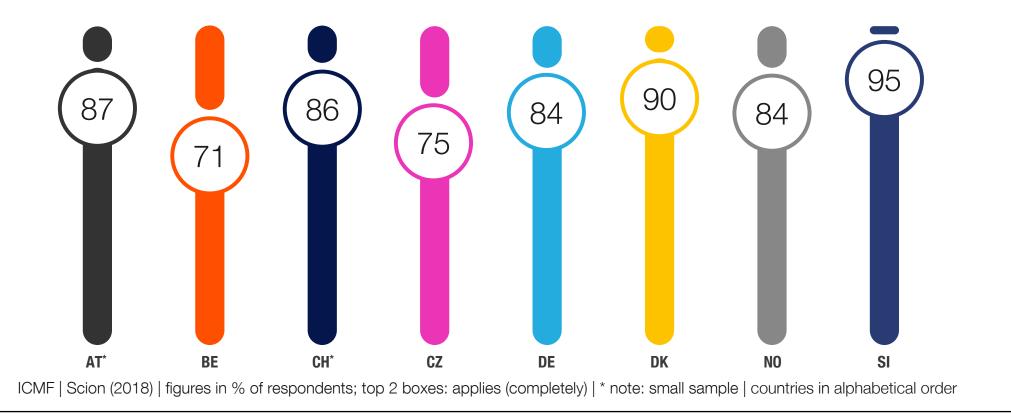

Future importance of content marketing

Content marketing is well-established in the communications mix and there is widespread unanimity among executives that it will continue to gain in importance.

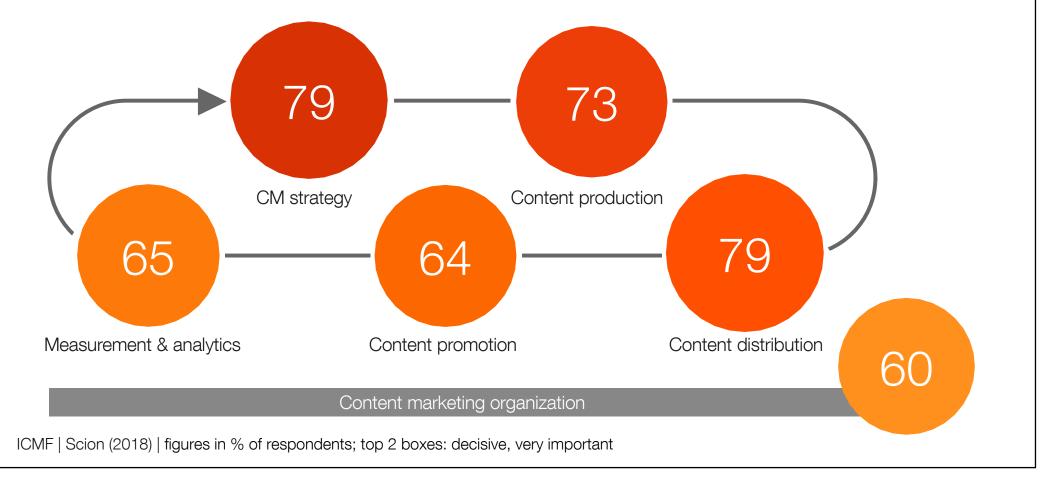

11

In the future, content marketing will become a more important element in our communications mix.

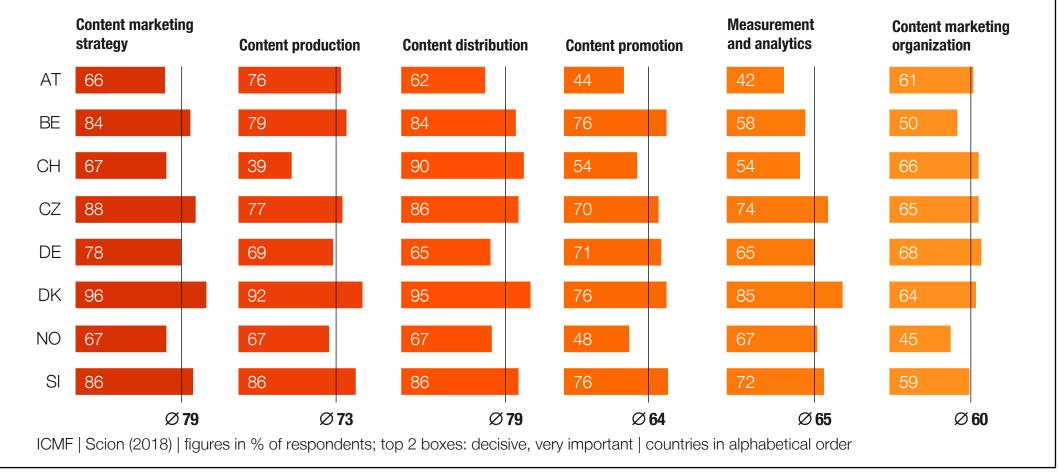

Future success factors in the content marketing cycle

At international level, the entire CM cycle and CM organization are seen as relevant – there is no easy way to be sustainably successful at CM. Particularly critical: "strategizing" and "distribution".

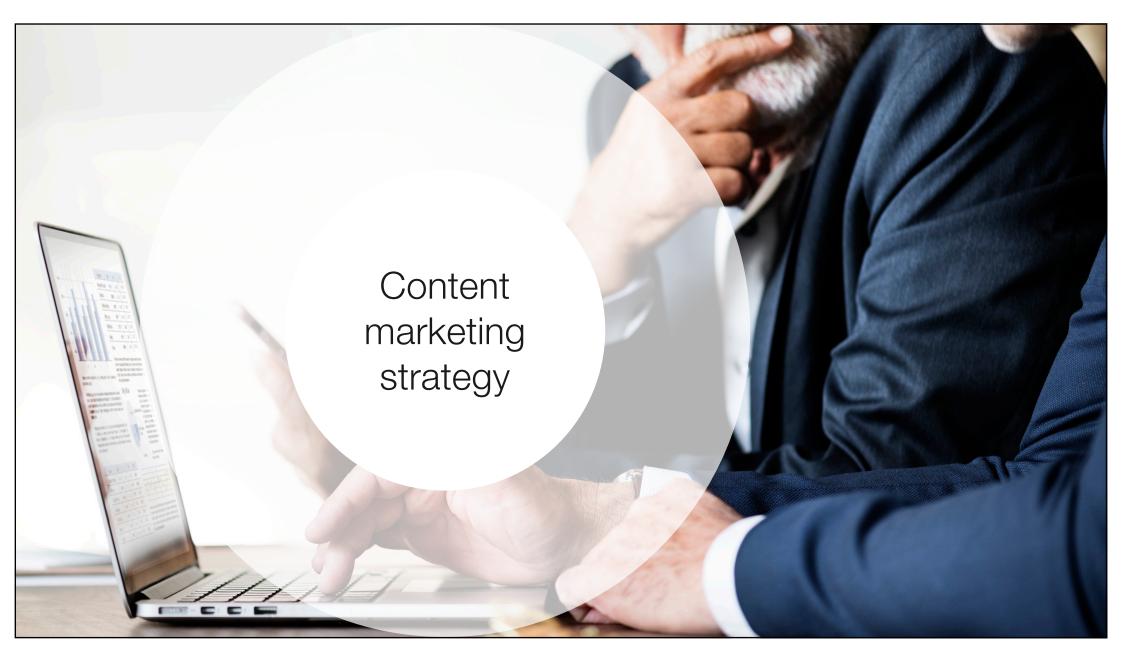

Future success factors in the content marketing cycle

Although there are differences between the countries, it is widely acknowledged that the entire CM cycle and organization are relevant.

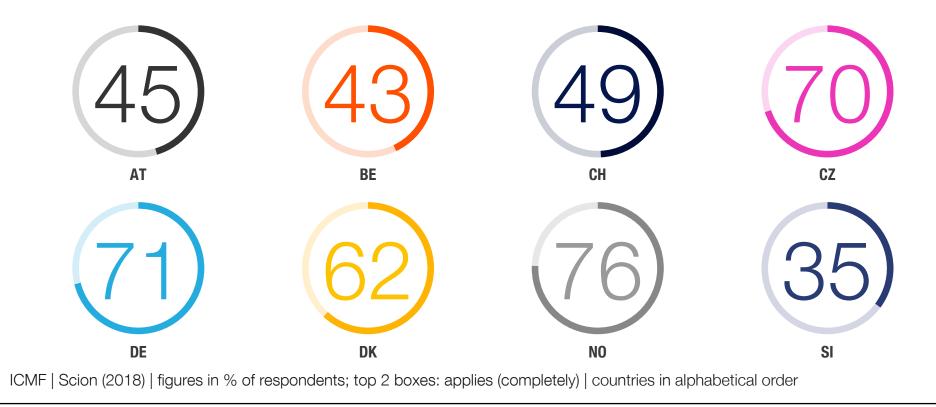

13

Defined content marketing strategy

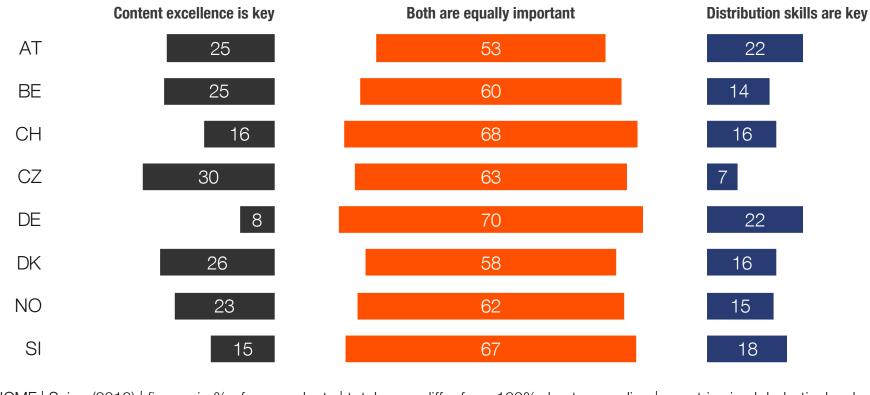

The degree of strategic maturity varies considerably: Depending on the country, 35-76 percent of the companies have a clearly defined content marketing strategy.

Our company has a clearly defined content marketing strategy.

Content distribution and promotion Importance of content excellence and distribution skills

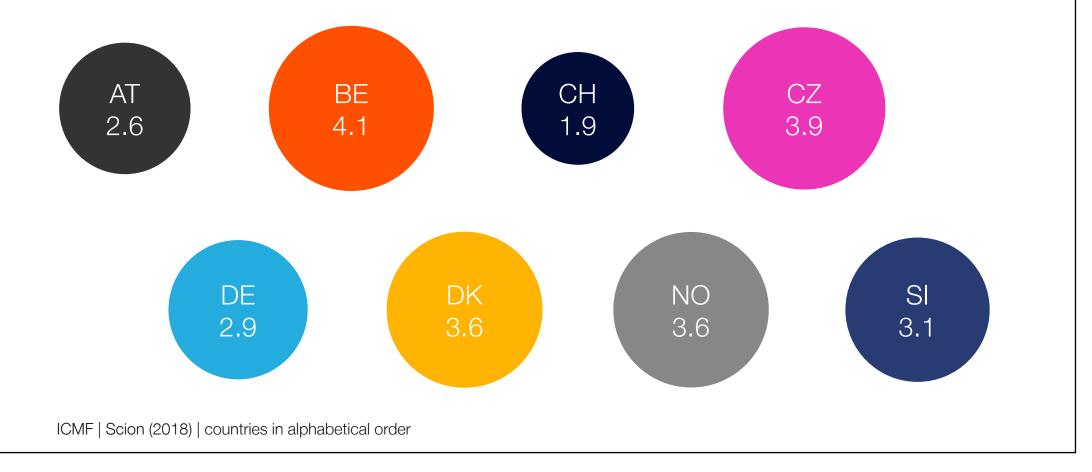

It is widely acknowledged that "one-winged birds can't fly": Successful content marketing requires content excellence as well as profound distribution skills.

ICMF | Scion (2018) | figures in % of respondents | totals may differ from 100% due to rounding | countries in alphabetical order

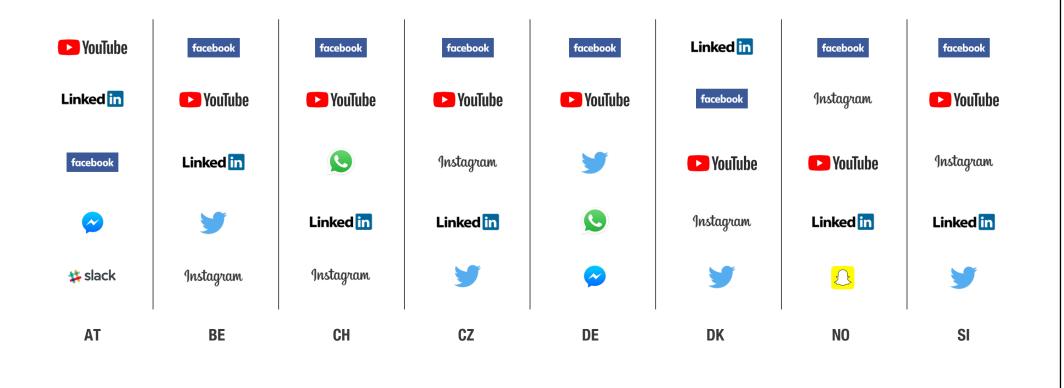

Content distribution: social media platforms used for content marketing purposes (Ø number of platforms)

BE, CZ and the Scandinavian countries are leading the field in using social media platforms for content marketing.

Content distribution: social media platforms used for content marketing purposes (top 5 platforms)

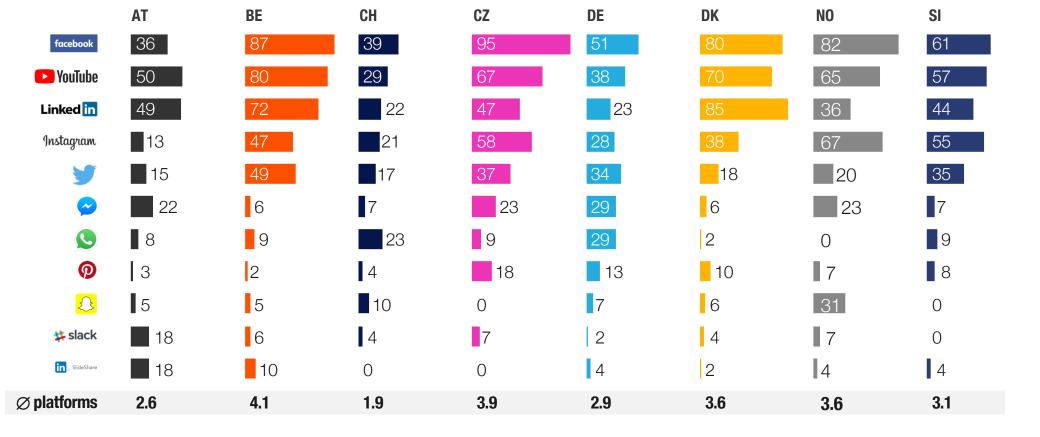

Facebook is used most frequently in six of the eight countries. Together with YouTube, it is always among the top three. Instagram and LinkedIn also rank repeatedly among the top of the list.

ICMF | Scion (2018) | countries in alphabetical order

Content distribution: social media platforms used for content marketing purposes (percent of companies)

A closer look at the figures reveals considerable differences in the usage ratios at international level.

ICMF | Scion (2018) | countries in alphabetical order

20

Contextual content

At international level, executives have different views on the opportunities offered by contextual content. CH, DE, NO and BE are most optimistic.

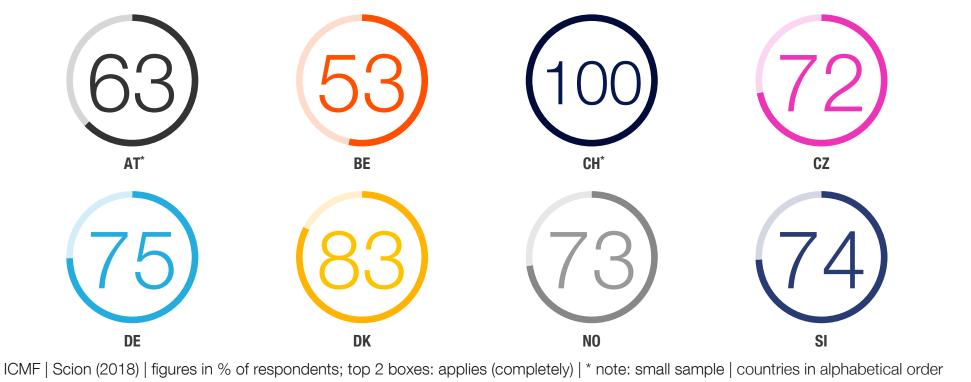

New technologies like smart speakers (e.g. Amazon Echo, Google Home) are making content an even greater part of our daily lives. This is creating new content interaction opportunities.

Data-driven content marketing

Considerable optimism regarding smart data and AI: the (clear) majority of content marketers are anticipating even more individualized content distribution, powerful chatbots, and more.

Smart data and artificial intelligence will take content marketing to a new level (e.g. content distribution based on predictive analytics, interactions via chatbots).

New distribution channels

23

Interest in new channels is rather high in most countries. In particular, decision-makers in NO, BE, DE and DK are convinced that companies will try out new channels.

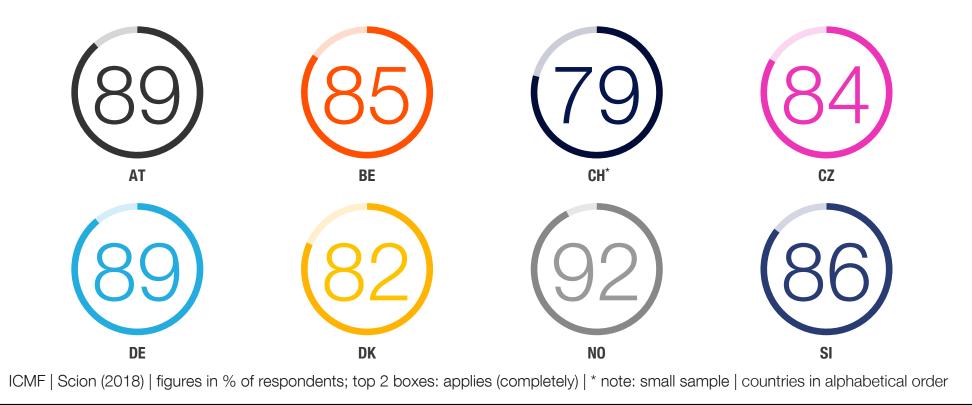

Companies will increasingly experiment with new, alternative content channels (e.g. smart speakers, VR, bots).

Content promotion

At international level, executives are convinced that content promotion is an absolute must.

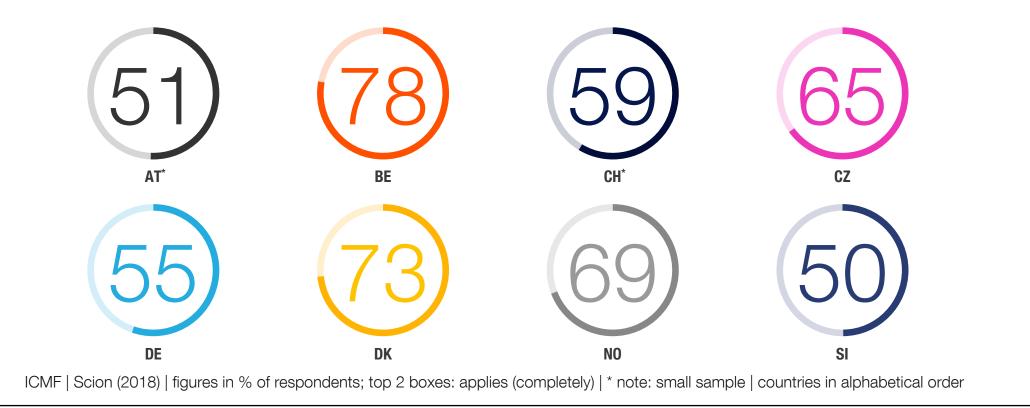

Content promotion is key to successful content marketing.

Paid promotion

The importance of paid reach causes polarization at international level. In particular, executives in BE and the Scandinavian countries regard it as essential.

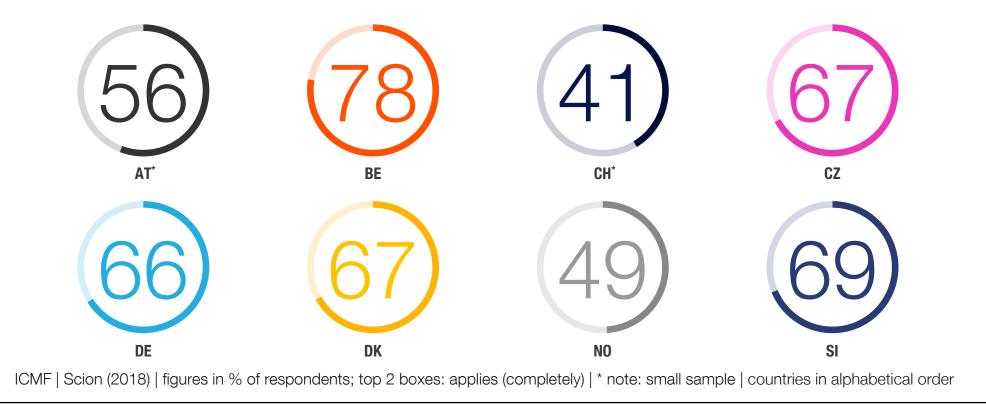

The organic reach of content is usually not sufficient - content marketing does not work without paid reach.

Importance of influencers

The future importance of influencers as a solution for distributing and amplifying content is assessed differently from country to country.

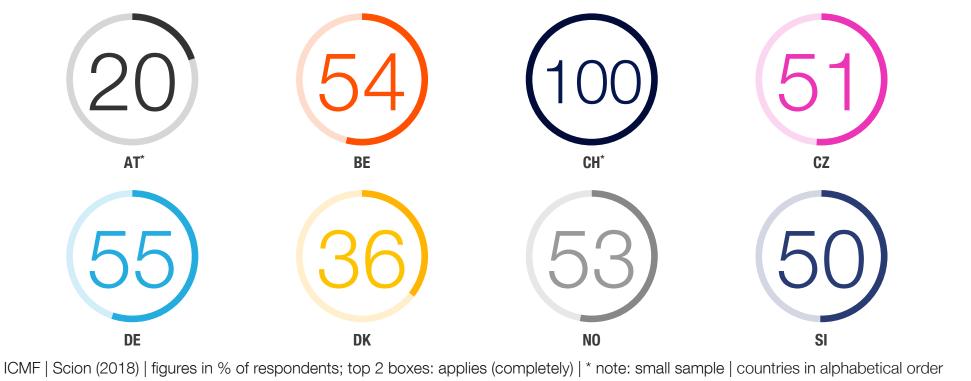

Influencers are not a temporary trend – in future they will play a key role in content marketing.

Importance of influencers

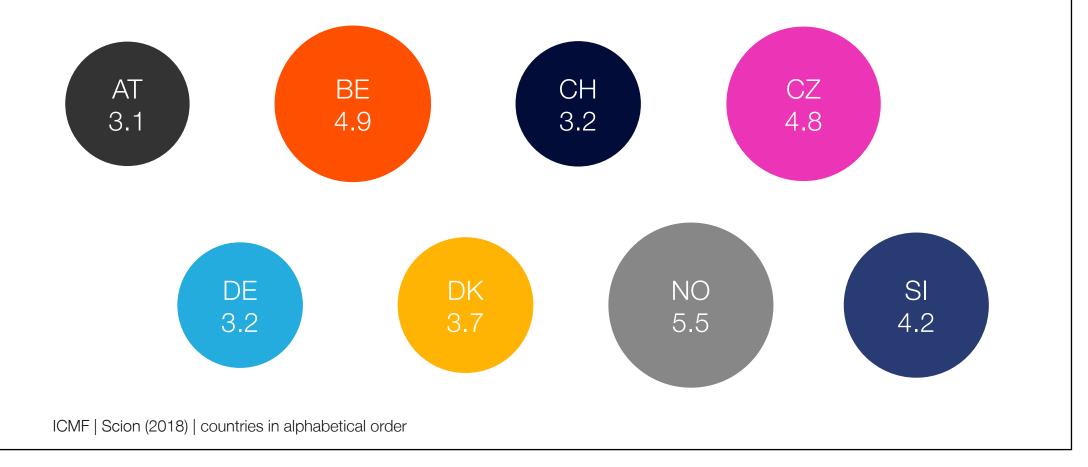

The choice between micro- and mega-influencers causes polarization between and within countries. This shows that decisions must be made context-specifically (e.g. niche products vs. mass markets).

Companies are better off investing their budgets with "micro-influencer" than "mega-influencers": although the former have fewer followers, these are more engaged.

Content promotion methods (\varnothing number of methods used)

By international standards, content marketers in NO are leading the pack in using various content promotion methods, followed by BE and CZ.

28

SMA, PR and SEA are the most widely used content promotion methods.

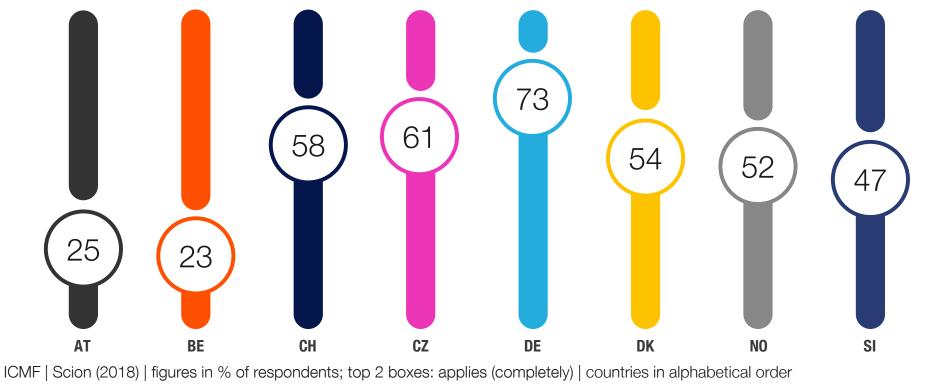

ICMF | Scion (2018) | countries in alphabetical order

At international level, impact measurement is not yet universally recognised as a musthave.

We have a system to measure the impact of our content marketing activities (e.g. clearly defined communications objectives, responsibilities, budgets).

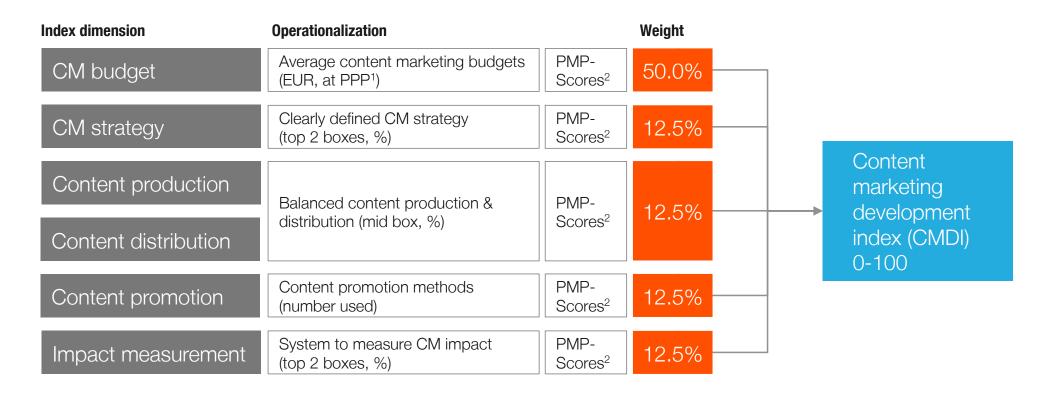

as als in all its

=

Content marketing development index

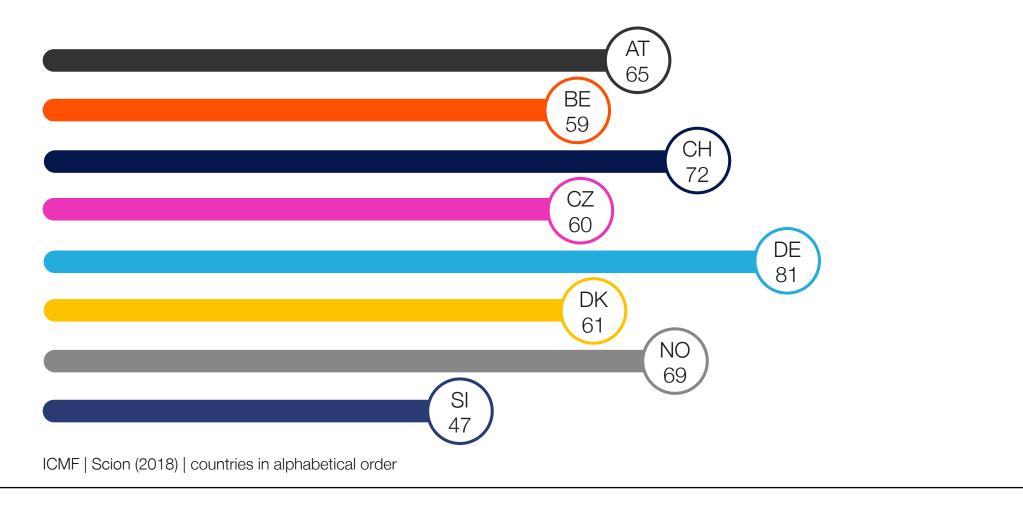

The overall level of content marketing development can be assessed using the CMDI.

ICMF | Scion (2018) |¹ budgets adjusted at purchasing power parity, PPP data from Eurostat (2018) |² percent of maximum possible score according to Cohen et al. (1999)

Content marketing development index (0-100)

DE has currently the highest CMDI, followed by CH and NO.

34

Editor of the study

International Content Marketing Forum coordinated by Content Marketing Forum e.V. Dachauer Str. 21a D-80335 Munich +49 (0)89 34 07 79 77 www.content-marketing-forum.com

Contact: Michael Hoeflich michael.hoeflich@content-marketing-forum.com

Realization

Scion Research Labs Widenmayerstraße 31 D-80802 Munich

Contact: Prof. Dr. Clemens Koob clemens.koob@scionlabs.de +49 (0)179 100 69 60